

MURDER WIFE, SHOTS A WOMAN, THEN HIMSELF

Gus Krueger Aroused to Fury by Accusation that He Is Bigamist.

HE IS MORTALLY HURT.

Other Victim Is Mrs. Boice,
Wife of the Dead Woman's Adopted Son.

Gus Krueger shot and killed his wife to-day at their home, No. 74 Hawthorne avenue, Newark. He also shot Mrs. Babina Boice, wife of an adopted son of Mrs. Krueger, and then shot himself.

Krueger and Mrs. Boice are in St. Barnabas Hospital. The man is believed to be mortally wounded, but Mrs. Boice, the doctors say, will recover.

The shooting was the outcome of a quarrel between Krueger and his wife, the latter having accused her husband of being a bigamist.

Krueger and the woman, he killed were married last October. She was the widow of a man named Steiner and owned a saloon. Both she and her husband, who is a steel worker, were well-to-do and owned the double tenement in which the tragedy occurred to-day.

Letter Caused Trouble.
About two weeks ago a letter came to the house addressed to Krueger was from a son of Krueger who is at sea. In the absence of her husband Mrs. Krueger opened the letter and from its contents she surmised that her husband was living in Germany with a woman he had deserted.

When her husband came home Mrs. Krueger questioned him about the letter and accused him of being a bigamist. Ever since that time the couple had been quarrelling. Angry words passed between them to-day, and then Mrs. Boice, whose rooms are across the hall from the Kruegers' rooms, ran over to see what the trouble was and intending to act as a peacemaker. When she reached the Krueger rooms she saw Krueger with a revolver in his hand, and she says that she seized hold of him.

The Wife Killed.
Krueger, despite Mrs. Boice's efforts to restrain him, fired a shot at his wife and the bullet entered the woman's head, killing her instantly. During the struggle the revolver was discharged twice again and both bullets struck Mrs. Boice in the arm. She let go of Krueger then and her screams brought to her aid her mother, Mrs. Samuel Krueger, who lives with her.

Mrs. Krueger, when she ran into the hall she saw Krueger with a revolver at his head. He pulled the trigger, but the cartridge did not explode. The man then ran from the dining room into the parlor. It is supposed he quickly reloaded the revolver there, for before Mrs. Krueger could bring any of the neighbors to her aid another shot was fired in the parlor. When the neighbors came they found Mrs. Krueger dead on the dining room floor. Krueger, after shooting out the parlor floor, bleeding from a wound over the right ear.

ACCUSES WHALEN OF ABANDONING INFANT.

Jerome Detectives Find Man's Wife and Children in Vain and Arrest Him.

Thomas Whalen, who says he is a picture salesman, was to-day held for trial by Magistrate Crane when arraigned in Harlem Court on a charge of violating Section 277, of the Penal Code, referring to abandoning an infant. The arrest and charge resulted from District Attorney Jerome's interest in the case of the wife, Nellie Whalen.

Mr. Jerome sent Detective Fitzgerald, of his office, to No. 122 East Eighty-eighth street to investigate Mrs. Whalen's case. Fitzgerald was the prosecuting witness to-day, testifying that he found Mrs. Whalen in such a condition that he sent her to the Sheltering Arms while her two-year-old son was taken to the Sisters of Mercy. Whalen and child were cold and hungry, with no money or food. The District Attorney's office based their charge on the Penal Code section, in order to secure a conviction for the charge of abandoning an infant. Whalen pleaded not guilty.

CONFESSES MURDER
HE DIDN'T COMMIT.

Insane Man Interrupts a Trial and Declares Himself Guilty of Another's Crime.

WALLACE, Idaho, Feb. 21.—A man thought to be insane caused a commotion at the trial of Steve Adams, murderer of Fred Taylor, by springing up near the defendant and shouting:

"I am the man that moved the hand. Turn all these other fellows loose, for I am the man that done the deed."

The words and appearance of the strange man, whose hair was long and black and whose stubby beard and wild eyes gave him a strange aspect, caused the defendant to turn pale, and Mrs. Adams to burst into tears.

Two officers removed the stranger from the court-room to the Sheriff's office. There he was held until Patrick C. Ryan, of Butte, that he had just finished a term in Deer Lodge penitentiary for a similar crime, and after being released he had gone to Burke, where Roosevelt's daughter had told him to come to Wallace and charge of this case. He said if Adams was convicted an earthquake would destroy the Coeur d'Alene. Ryan will be committed to an asylum.

NOTED ACTOR IS STRANGELY DEAD IN HOTEL CELLAR

Frank MacVicar, of "The Man of the Hour,"
a Victim.

FRANK MACVICAR

Frank MacVicar, an actor, who recently made the hit of the comedy "The Man of the Hour," as Richard Horigan, the political boss—a character drawn from incidents in the life of Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall—was found dead early to-day in the arway leading to the basement of the Hotel Rivoli, No. 108 West Thirty-eighth street. The police of the Tenderloin station are investigating with a view to ascertaining if there was foul play.

A neatly penned note in unmistakable feminine hand was found on the seat of the elevator in MacVicar's apartment. It read:

"Mac, I must see you before 6 o'clock to-night, or if you do not connect be sure and phone me the very first thing in the morning."

"V.G.R."

Adolphe Sylvia, a kitchen attendant employed at the Hotel Rivoli, discovered the body, face downward. It was even full daylight. The body was of a man, about 35 years of age, with the actor's friends and players in the "Man of the Hour" company decide upon burial arrangements.

MacVicar is said to have visited the Lamps Club after the performance last night, leaving there at an early hour this morning for his apartment in the Hotel Rivoli.

Policeman Elliot, of the West Thirtieth Street Station, who was called in by the man who discovered the body, found MacVicar was wearing the body of a man, and a woman on the head, his skull having been broken according to an examination by Dr. Stewart, of the New York Hospital.

MacVicar was six feet two inches tall, heavily built, had a rounded red face and a bunch of the dimensions of a leader of Tammany Hall. He was an Englishman about fifty years old, and for many years was a member of the Brooklyn Ties Company. Later he toured Australia, and then crossed the Pacific to California, where he appeared in stock.

MacVicar looked to be a ripe victim for apoplexy, said George H. Broadhurst, author of "The Man of the Hour," to-day in the Evening World reporter. "I have no doubt but that he got home at a late hour and was seized on an attack as he was about to enter his hotel."

Mr. Broadhurst gave as the actor's nearest friends, the Southern member of the same company. Together with George Pawcett, who plays Folan, said to be built around the character of "Dry Dollar," Tim Sullivan, MacVicar was the leading character of the show, and his place will not be easy to fill.

BROTHERS PLEAD UNWRITTEN LAW IN MURDER TRIAL

Killing of Bywater by the Strothers Called in Virginia Court.

CULPEPER, Va., Feb. 21.—Philip and James Strother, brothers, were placed on trial to-day, charged with the murder of their brother-in-law, William F. Bywaters, on the night of Dec. 35 last, within a few hours after he had been married to their sister, Miss Viola Strother.

The "unwritten law" is the defense, and the trial promises to be the most sensational in Virginia since the trial and conviction of former Mayor McCue, of Charlottesville, for the murder of his wife.

Gov. Baughman has designated Judge Thomas W. Harrison, of Winchester, to preside at the special term of court which was called for the trial of the Strother brothers.

Mrs. Bywaters has been in a critical condition since the night her husband was killed, but it is thought that she will be able to testify for the prosecution.

There is every indication that the trial will be the most widely attended of any trial ever held here. Both families are among the most prominent in this section of the State. William Bywaters, the victim, was a clubman, horseman, politician, and general "good fellow," about town.

One of the defendants, James Strother, is a leading lawyer of Welch, Va., and a member of the West Virginia Legislature. He was at home on a visit at the time of the tragedy.

There is much feeling between the friends, political and otherwise, of the Bywaters and Strother families, and the legal fight will be a notable one.

Michael Woods, of Charlottesville, who prosecuted the McCue case, who has been retained by the Bywaters for the prosecution, is assisted by M. and John Keith, of Warrenton.

John Jeffries, of Norfolk, as leading counsel for the defense, is assisted by John L. Lee, of Lynchburg; R. Walter Moore, of Fairfax, and probably others.

BRINGING POPE'S GIFT.
ROME, Feb. 21.—Chancellor Mundelein, of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn, left Rome for the United States yesterday taking with him a magnificent gold chalice, a gift from Pope to Bishop McDonnell, of Brooklyn.

He was an Englishman about fifty years old, and for many years was a member of the Brooklyn Ties Company. TOKIO, Feb. 21.—A written interpolation regarding the San Francisco school question was presented to the Government to-day by a member of the House of Representatives. The reply of Foreign Minister Hayashi is expected in a few days.

The Japanese newspapers have not commented on this appeal up to the present.

DECEIVER INDICTED.

Vance Held by the Grand Jury,
but Attorney Says Wife
Forgives Him.

Edward A. Vance, the Brooklyn bookkeeper who wed Miss Elsie Schlegel, daughter of a wealthy lithograph manufacturer of Bay Ridge, a few weeks ago, was indicted to-day by the Kings County Grand Jury. Vance was arrested two days after his wedding, and the case comes up in the District Court to-morrow before Magistrate Furlong.

Vance's first wife, who was Miss Sue Duffy, of Pittsburgh, resides at No. 60 First street, Brooklyn, with their three children. According to Vance's attorney, Mrs. Vance No. 2 will take no action against the man she met and loved as Edward Floyd Field, a wealthy bachelor with the club and cab habit.

However, the financial district will be given an opportunity of purchasing tickets for the New York Herald's benefit at the Academy of Music on the evening of Sunday, March 3. One hundred young ladies, members of the six leading Broadway musical comedies, will journey to Wall street in automobiles Monday morning at about 11 o'clock. It is the one best bet for the day that they will not be arrested.

This is one of the most meritorious charitable enterprises the city can boast, and the outlook is that the big Academy building will be packed and jammed the night of the entertainment.

PERSECUTED FOR REVENGE, CRIES THE ICE TRUST

Charges Two Democrats
Losing $210,000 Is Cause of Probe.

Justice of the Supreme Court A. T. Clearwater, of Kingston, made the charge before Justice Greenbaum in the Supreme Court to-day that the Attorney-General's official power was being used by the Attorney-General in the prosecution of the American Ice Company in the interest of "two dominant politicians in the Democratic party" who lost $210,000 on American Ice Company stock.

The remark was made in argument on a battle by the Attorney-General's office to go back to 1899 in the Ice Trust books.

Not offer to the Attorney-General permission to inspect and copy every contract, letter or other document signed by President Oler or dated during Mr. Oler's incumbency of the office.

"Anything that occurs prior to that has no bearing on the charge that we are maintaining a monopoly of the ice business in restraint of trade and for which the Attorney-General seeks to have us punished."

"You do not claim that the Attorney-General is using his official position for the purpose of helping these politicians," asked Justice Greenbaum.

"If do most distinctly."

The last of the present Attorney-General's, replied Judge Clearwater. Decision was reserved.

RESCUED WOMAN JUST ABOUT TO JUMP 2 STORIES

Smoke Had Cut Off Her
Escape When Firemen
Came—2 Overcome.

Fire started in the cellar of the five-story brick tenement and store building at No. 82 Columbus avenue this afternoon and quickly filled the house with smoke. Tenants rushed to the stairs from the four double living floors and the employees ran from the two ground floor stores, occurred by the West Side Printing Company and John Murphy, plumber. Policeman Tobin, of the West One Hundredth Street Station, ran around the corner to the quarters of Engine Company No. 74, which responded after sending in an alarm that brought Truck No. 22 and other engine companies.

Mrs. Annie Pooler was alone in her flat on the second floor, and did not hear the alarm until the smoke had made the hallways impassable. She opened a window and climbed out, balancing herself as though undecided whether or not to jump. The crowd below shouted for her to wait, that the firemen were coming. Truck No. 22 arrived at that moment and a short ladder was quickly raised, down which the half-suffocated woman was carried.

Engine No. 74 had laid a line of hose which the firemen carried into the basement. Cries from within quickly told that the men inside were in distress. Fresh squads of firemen rushed into the smoke and soon carried out Pipemen McGinnis and Day, of No. 76, both unconscious. They were resuscitated and in spite of protests were sent to quarters. The fire was trivial.

Billiard Hall When Luck
Comes His Way.

Henry A. Brotherton, a broker, forty-two, of No. 962 West One Hundred and Forty-ninth street, is dead because of the overwhelming joy of having good luck playing pool.

He was playing with some friends on table No. 13 last night at No. 1328 Amsterdam avenue, when success for the first time came his way. Every shot told. He was hitting the balls like an expert. Players from other tables stopped to watch him. Mr. Brotherton laughed gaily.

"My nerves are fine to-night," he declared. "It does me in such form before, I feel perfectly calm."

The sentence was broken off, and he threw up his hands, falling to the floor. Alderman Guffenberger and others helped him to a drug store, but he was dead before his wife reached him. Mr. Brotherton had been ill of heart weakness for some months.

CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON
NO LIMIT TO ITS POWERS FOR EVIL

Contagious Blood Poison has brought more suffering, misery and humiliation into the world than all other diseases combined; there is hardly any limit to its powers for evil. It is the blackest and vilest of all disorders, wrecking the lives of those unfortunate enough to contract it and often being transmitted to innocent off-spring, a blighting legacy of suffering and shame. So highly contagious is the trouble that innocent persons may contract it by using the same table ware, toilet articles or clothing of one in whose blood the treacherous virus has taken root. Not only is it a powerful poison but a very deceptive one. Only those who have learned by bitter experience know of the little sore or ulcer, which usually makes its appearance first, of the suffering which is to follow. It comes in the form of ulcerated mouth, and throat, unsightly copper colored spots, swollen glands in the groin, falling hair, offensive sores and ulcers on the body, and in severe cases the finger nails drop off, the bones become diseased, the nervous system is shattered and the sufferer becomes an object of pity to his fellow man. Especially is the treacherous nature of Contagious Blood Poison shown when the infected person endeavors to combat the trouble with mercury and potash. These minerals will drive away all outward symptoms of the trouble for awhile, and the victim is deceived into the belief that he is cured. When, however, the treatment is left off he finds that the poison has only been driven deeper. Into the blood and the disease reappears, and usually in worse form because these strong minerals have not only failed to remove the virus from the blood but have weakened the entire system because of their destructive action. S. S. S. is the only real and certain cure for Contagious Blood Poison. It is made of a combination of healing blood-purifying roots, herbs and barks, the best in Nature's great laboratory of forest and field. We offer a reward of $1,000
